REPORT ON THE CELEBRATION OF INTERNATIONAL MOTHER LANGUAGE DAY 2026

Organized by: Department of Assamese, Pandu College

International Mother Language Day is celebrated globally to promote linguistic diversity, cultural heritage, and the preservation of native languages. Aligning with this global vision, the Department of Assamese, Pandu College, organized a special virtual lecture event to deliberate on the status, challenges, and future prospects of regional languages in the contemporary era. The program specifically focused on how the Assamese language can navigate and sustain itself amid rapid technological advancements.

The event was conducted virtually via the Google Meet platform on 21st February 2026, from 6:30 PM to 7:30 PM. The webinar centered around the highly relevant theme, "যন্ত্ৰৰ যুগত মাতৃভাষাঃ ভাষা প্ৰযুক্তি আৰু অসমীয়াৰ ভৱিষ্যত" (Mother Language in the Age of Machines: Language Technology and the Future of Assamese). The session attracted a large virtual gathering comprising faculty members, research scholars, and students from various institutions.

Dr. Leena Dihingia, Assistant Professor from the Department of Assamese, Gauhati University, graced the event as the distinguished resource person. As an expert in the field, Dr. Dihingia brought valuable academic and practical insights into how regional linguistics intersect with modern computational frameworks, making her the ideal speaker for this timely discourse.

During her core address, which was supported by a detailed and comprehensive PowerPoint presentation, Dr. Dihingia explored the survival and adaptation of the mother tongue in the current age of automation and Artificial Intelligence. She shed light on the vital role of Language Technology and Natural Language Processing (NLP) in integrating Assamese into everyday digital infrastructure. The discussion also candidly addressed current limitations, such as the scarcity of localized digital data and Unicode standardization challenges, while offering a visionary roadmap for researchers and software developers to secure a thriving digital future for the language.

The lecture was followed by an interactive interaction session where participants engaged with the speaker on the practicalities of regional language computing. The event concluded successfully with a formal vote of thanks, emphasizing that the preservation of a mother tongue in the 21st century is deeply tied to its technological adaptability. Through this initiative, the Department of Assamese at Pandu College successfully highlighted the balance between cultural preservation and technological progression.
